Types of Wind Damage and Associated Losses

Wind Damage is very common in the US, since we face plenty of strong storms and wind that will suddenly come from nowhere. Losses that can occur from wind are such things as roof damage, missing shingles, downed fences / trees, and broken windows. Our expertise includes condominium losses, condo complexes, commercial losses, and residential losses. With our adjusting experience, our knowledge of insurance policies, and our knowledge of state statutes and codes make us second to none when it comes to adjusting even large commercial roof claims.

The Complexities of Hurricane Damage Claims

Hurricanes are prevalent in Florida and have complexities as they are considered a catastrophic loss. Regarding hurricane damage your policy coverages are different than a regular wind or hail event.

After the storm has passed, it is very important that you properly address and identify the obvious damage and the underlying issues

Wind and Hail damage from storms often cause other issues that are not easily visible. You want to make sure you don't miss these important issues. We encourage you to contact us early to discuss what we can do to help you in the event you experience wind damage, so we can advocate for you from the beginning.

Hail can destroy just about anything it touches, which can be devastating. Hail damage claims sometimes can have coverage issues. Your carrier may tell you your home or business isn't covered because the damage didn't affect your roof's functionality.

The Benefits of Working with Lioness Claims

When you choose to work with a public insurance adjuster, you'll get several benefits. First, we understand how to deal with insurance companies, and can streamline the process of filing a claim. Second, we know how to document the damage to your home or business to get a maximum payout and make sure that you get the money that you deserve. Finally, we can help you avoid common mistakes that may result in a claim denial, such as failing to document damage, or performing repairs before an insurance company examines your property. We fight for you during every step of the insurance claim process and help you get the money that you deserve.
